

Washington Report

by GEORGE ANDREWS
Member of Congress
Third District of Ala.

(Ed. Note: This is the first of a two-part article, dealing with electoral reform—what action has been taken and what lies ahead.)

Big city political bosses from coast to coast must be tickled pink at the thought of possibly choosing the next President of the United States. They have a golden opportunity, thanks to the House of Representatives, which has just dumped the electoral college in favor of a direct popular election plan.

City Hall boys in Chicago, New York City, Los Angeles, and the like weren't doing too badly with the present system, which gives the popular vote winner in a state all of that state's electoral votes. In fact, nine states, which have 12 of the largest cities, cast 54.6 percent of all the votes cast in the 1968 election, according to a Butler University political science professor.

Now, with the haunting memory of George Wallace's strong showing during the last election fresh on the minds of Congressional liberals, the House sized and sparsely populated states operate at a disadvantage, since the nine states which cast 54.6 percent of those 1968 votes almost have a majority of the electoral votes.

Yet, this makes it possible for them to be only pivotal. Although it is almost impossible to win without the electoral votes of most of them, winning all of them by whatever margin is not enough for election. A good many other states must be considered. Not so under a nationwide popular election; a few states could elect the President, irrespective of the rest of the nation. In 1968, close to 50 percent of the popular vote was cast by twelve big cities in New York, California, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan and Missouri. And lest anyone doubt the potential of political machines, more than half of the Illinois vote is usually cast in Cook County, under the heavy thumb of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley.

The popular election votes in other states would be rather insignificant as long as political machines in the big cities in these nine heavily populated states could pile up big pluralities. Why then should Presidential candidates campaign across the country when in a nationwide popular election, the real bonanza lies in nine states?

We need electoral reform, despite the fact that the electoral college has provided us a President over the course of 40 Presidential elections. However, we do not need direct popular election, which abolishes the electoral vote along with the college. I voted against the Celler Amendment, and although it passed the House, I am hopeful that the Senate, which now must consider it, will not give the necessary two-thirds majority. If it does, it must still be ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states.

One of the flaws of the present electoral college system is its lack of reasonable safeguards against the election of the President by the House over the popular vote winner. In 1824, John Quincy Adams, loser of the popular vote, was elected President by the House over Henry Clay and Andrew Jackson. Clay hated Jackson, and threw his support to Adams. When Clay was later made Secretary of State, charges of a deal became widespread, and Adams lost his bid for reelection.

Two other popular vote losers were also elected President: Rutherford B. Hayes, in 1876 and Benjamin Harrison, in 1888.

(Next week, I shall discuss further the dangers of direct popular election, which may eventually come before the states for approval, and a desirable alternative to direct election.)

OCTOBER is... Alabama BEEF Month

OCTOBER has been designated ALABAMA BEEF MONTH by the more than 12,000 members of the Alabama Cattlemen's Association and Alabama Cowbelles. Governor Albert Brewer has proclaimed OCTOBER as BEEF MONTH in Alabama and is urging all citizens to "Eat More BEEF" and join with the Cattlemen in saluting Alabama's growing BEEF industry.

Governor Brewer is shown above presenting the official State proclamation to Flournoy Whitman, Elba, President of Coffee County Cattlemen's Association, on behalf of the Coffee County Cattlemen's Association. This week encouraged all housewives to take a hint from the official proclamation and "eat more beef."

Elba Tigers Defeat Brundidge 32 - 6

The Elba Tigers got off to a slow start last Friday night against Brundidge but came alive to soundly whip the Bulldogs 32-6.

The scoring started when David Sutton short tackled and fought his way 59 yards for the TD. Dennis Smith was not to be outdone and went 26 yards on a pass for the next score.

Donnie Holley was not satisfied with just making extra points and on the fourth down and long yardage he leaped high in the air in the back of the end zone to snare a Croel pass and another 6 points.

Holley started off the second half with a bang when he broke a tackle and dashed 71 yards for paydirt.

Freddie Moore capped a long drive with a oneyard plunge for the final score. The Croel to Holley TD pass was probably the most perfect offensive play of the game the perfect tackle thrown by Mark May was probably the outstanding defensive play. May hit his man perfectly while he was in the air. This turned him a flip and jared the ball loose, preventing a sure first down.

Elba Journeys to Enterprise this Friday night.

Local Residents Injured In Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrison of Elba were injured last Thursday afternoon in a three-car accident on the Elba-Enterprise highway near the Enterprise city limits. Also injured in the accident were Margaret Ann Brown of Daleville, driver of the second car and Marion Newson, Enterprise, driver of the third car.

According to patrolman Don Morris, the accident occurred when the Ford driven by Mrs. Brown apparently tried to pass another car and struck head on with the Chevrolet driven by Mrs. Harrison. Newson ran off the road attempting to avoid the other cars but did strike the Harrison car after it bounced to the side of the road.

Mrs. Harrison suffered a fractured skull, broken legs and arms. Mr. Harrison suffered lacerations of the right eye, Newson suffered cuts on his face and Mrs. Brown suffered a broken arm, internal injuries and severe head injuries.

No charges have been filed by investigating officers.

Highway Patrol To Check Drivers On Friday

The Alabama Highway Patrol announced this week that several units will be enforcing the speed limits Friday night between Elba and Enterprise. They will be using radar and the new Vantage. The patrolmen encouraged those going and coming from the football game in Enterprise to drive carefully.

Chicken Boxes Will Be On Sale Friday

Chicken boxes will be on sale at the visitors gate at the Elba-Enterprise football game in Enterprise Friday night.

Visitors are urged to attend the game and eat supper at the stadium. The sale is sponsored by the Enterprise Professional Women's Club. The proceeds are to be used for a scholarship to Enterprise Junior College for some high school graduate.

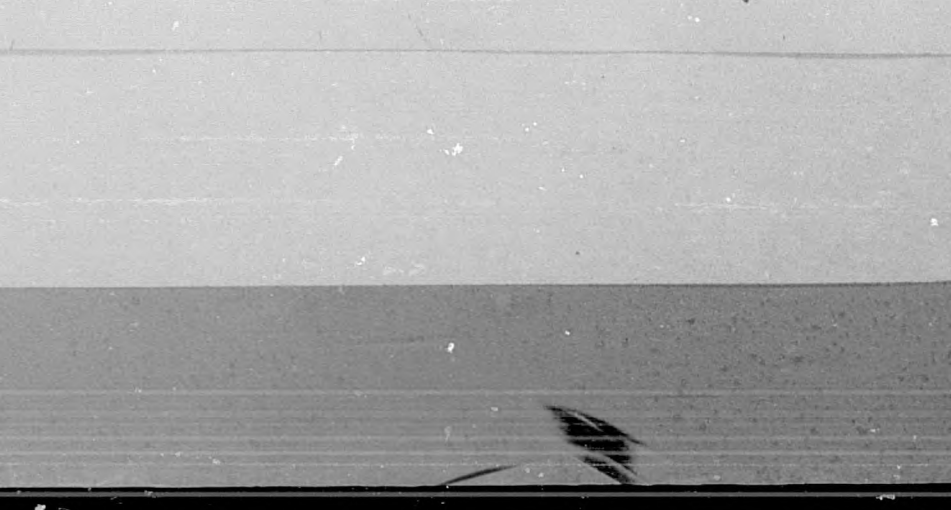

Elba PTA To Meet October 13

Dr. Lloyd C. Robinson of Auburn University will be the guest speaker at the first meeting of the Elba P.T.A.

The meeting will be held on Monday night, October 13, at 7:15 o'clock in the High School Auditorium. Dr. Robinson will explain the non-graded program of the Elementary School.

All parents are urged to attend this program.

over the country are taking advantage of this opportunity to look their own way. Governor Brewer officially proclaimed National Newspaper Week in Alabama in a conference with President Joel Smith, Wednesday, October 1. Anyhow this week is National Newspaper Week and we're apt to be tooting our own horn. The fact that this column is read by approximately 20,000 persons each week could be something to brag about. The fact that this newspaper is going into more homes than ever before is certainly something to brag about. And we're taking this opportunity to do just that.

"KEEPING UP with the Joneses" can be a problem, but for handicapped people, keeping up with the rest of society is even harder. The goodwill program of providing rehabilitation and job training provides a means of returning the handicapped person to a position of acceptance in society. Governor Albert Brewer has proclaimed October 5-11 as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week in Alabama. This is a time when we give special emphasis to the year-around job of promoting employment opportunities for the handicapped. It is hoped that everyone will participate in this worthy cause.

While more and more employers are hiring the handicapped in spite of their disabilities, some hire workers because of their handicap. For instance, a furniture manufacturer in Montgomery employs the physically handicapped because they are more dedicated to their jobs and their skill and craftsmanship is as good as the able bodied worker's (and said in most cases better) because they strive harder to prove their ability.

A large bank in Birmingham has found that deaf mutes make better than average keypunch operators because they are able to concentrate so well, unaffected by the noise of the machines and other office distractions. A blind man, working as a computer programmer at a federal installation near Anniston, Alabama, is pleased with his job. He is superior, at the same time, are pleased with his job performance.

NEWSPAPER: important yes, but... People are hungry. They tell you nobody reads newspapers anymore, and then they get all worked up over what the newspaper and its owners do. Taken from "Our Opinion" of the Publishers Auxiliary if newspapers aren't "relevant" these days, why should anyone care what they are doing? What difference does it make whether the publisher buys the local radio station or installs the local cable system if his paper is only a habit in the process of being discarded by the public? Why should anyone care that the local newspaper has been purchased by a nationwide chain?

The answer is that people ARE reading newspapers, and newspapers DO have an impact on their communities. It is to the credit of the press that people get worked up about newspapers.

National Newspaper Week is generally thought of as the time to remind John Q. of how mighty is the pen, how important his local newspaper. Should it not also be a time to remind him that the newspaper fits into a whole panoply of news sources which together make him the best informed and the best engaged citizen in the world.

WE BOUGHT the newspaper in Elba nearly eight years ago and since that time Elba has grown faster than I thought it possible for a town to improve. When we first put our trust, when we first invested in Elba we were told by some of our newspaper friends that we had lost our mind. If buying The Elba Clipper was "losing" and it was the best loss we ever had.

During the past nearly eight years more than a thousand new homes have been built in Elba. Not just houses but many are expensive homes in the $18 thousand to $40 thousand price range. Now a new industry is coming to Elba that will provide jobs for as many as 2,000 people within a few years.

I am especially proud of the way the people of Elba cooperate together when it comes to working for the improvement of the area. It is actually unbelievable that a group of people can work so well together without the bickering that goes on in so many towns when an issue arises.

I have enjoyed my experience and work with the people of Elba. It is gratifying and encouraging to work with such a fine cooperative group of people. But what I am most grateful for is seeing the accomplishments realized from cooperation. Sometimes things happen that can make us wonder if there is any such thing as cooperation and if there is such a thing as good results. So far that reason, alone, I am happy to see such cooperation.

LAST WEEKEND was football for us and I'm all worn out. We saw the Auburn-Kentucky game in Auburn during the afternoon, visited my father at Tyson Manor in Montgomery and saw the Alabama-Ole Miss game that night on TV.

The Auburn-Kentucky game was one sided from the beginning. I had decided that would be the only kind of game I would see this year. But the Alabama-Ole Miss game took care of that. It was nip and tuck from the beginning to the very last moment. It was hard to believe that Kentucky had just defeated Ole Miss.

That Sunday afternoon Mark starts an afternoon of football on television again. By then I was groggy from so much football so I didn't see those games.

On behalf of the thousands of members and the officers and staff of the Alabama Education Association, I send you and your newspaper sincere best wishes during National Newspaper Week.

Education in Alabama has made tremendous progress in recent years, and newspapers have played an important part in bringing this about. We appreciate very much the attention, support and publicity you give to the schools in your community.

Those of us in the field of education are not interested in education alone, but we have an abiding interest in all aspects of community life. We appreciate your contribution to the total welfare of society. Alabama has great potential in her human and natural resources. With all facets of our society working together, we

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs the moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Memories are precious things. I remember often the afternoon on our honeymoon when Jim and I visited these old cliff dwellings in Colorado. Later, we stopped at a mission church built of pink adobe. It was dark and cool inside, and you felt that many prayers had been said here, and many answered.

I thought of our own church back home — white frame, in a green New England valley. I was reared in that church. I was married in it, and you'll find Jim and me at worship in it each Sunday. It's a vital part of our life.

Unless you have a church that is vital to your life, you are missing something irreplaceable. Don't wait any longer. Select the Church of your choice — and start attending it this Sunday.

Harold Walker Completes Course

Captain Harold D. Walker, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Walker, Route 1, Elba, completed a 16-week helicopter pilot course at the Army Primary Helicopter School, Ft. Wolters, Texas, Sept. 12.

During the course, he was trained to fly Army helicopters and learned to use them in tactical maneuvers.

He will next undergo advanced flight training at the Army Aviation School, Ft. Rucker.

Captain Walker entered on active duty in December 1965 and was last assigned to Ft. Polk, Louisiana. He received his commission through an Officer Candidate School.

A 1963 graduate of Elba High School, he attended the University of Alabama, Montgomery.

First Baptist To Host County WMU Meeting

The WMU of Elba, First Baptist Church will host the quarterly meeting of the Coffee County Association, Woman's Missionary Union October 9 according to Mrs. R. W. Jackett, Association Director.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. There will be conferences for directors, presidents and leaders. Ladies are to bring such materials as year books, manuals and any material they use in their organization throughout the year.

Among the guests expected to attend the day long meeting is the organization's state executive secretary, Miss Mary Essie Stephens, from Montgomery, and the District president, Mrs. A. Lamb of Dothan. All pastors of the association are invited to attend.

The evening meeting will be held at the First Church, Enterprise with supper a 7 p.m. meeting 7:30. Conferences will be held in the evening for all.

Alabama To Receive Grant For Safety

Under a Federal Highway Administration grant awarded recently, the state of Alabama will receive $199,482 to establish a statewide school bus safety program, senators John Sparkman and Jim Allen have reported.

Once the program is implemented school districts will be required to hire a school bus supervisor and the State Department of Education will establish operating rules and regulations to insure inspections of buses and adequate experience of drivers.

"This is one more step toward making Alabama highways safer for our school children, Sparkman and Allen stated. We are proud to report this safety development for Alabama."

Direct nationwide popular vote will certainly lead to national election laws for Presidential elections, and as years of sad experience have shown, to the "federalizing" of all elections. The states of the Union, for the purpose of Presidential elections, will be quickly reduced to practical nonentities.

The run-off provided in the direct popular election plan will also be a headache. If no candidate receives a 40 percent majority of the popular vote, the nation will have to go through two national election campaigns, with all of their expense and effort. It may mean nationwide recounts and election contests, with resulting delays, and it can mean the ultimate election of a candidate who was, originally,
